Location

In the heart of France's Minervois region, nestling at the foot of the Black Mountain, lies the village of Agel. Its Château is one of a line of fortified castles where the vassals of the Count of Toulouse resisted the Albigensian crusade in the 12th century.

Soak up the atmosphere of the chateau's rich history as you wander its vast halls, or pause for reflection in the Library. Relax in the comfort of its spacious bedrooms. Enjoy breakfast with a view over the park. This will be a truly memorable stay in the beautiful, atmospheric surroundings of the Chateau.
